Hello from Churchtown Farm...

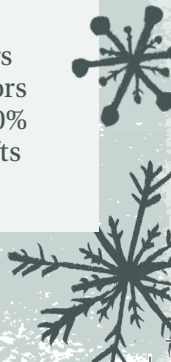

Our dedicated research and development team – aka Neil armed with paper samples, ruler and scissors – have been trialling many and various ways of gift-wrapping flowers that eliminate the need for plastic packaging. If you enjoyed a smaller box of scented pinks this summer you may have already received our new style packaging.

♪♪♪ BROWN PAPER PACKAGES... ♪♪♪
(TIED UP WITH STRING)

Great news; we have gone sleeveless across all our packs. Just over Christmas that means 75,000 fewer pieces of plastic.

Gifts don't come very much more recyclable than flowers and when those flowers are scented narcissi grown outdoors in the UK without artificial heat and packed in nearly 100% paper and card, there can't be many other Christmas gifts that leave a lighter footprint on the planet.

TELL US WHAT YOU THINK ABOUT OUR NEW PACKAGING. THIS IS A WORK IN PROGRESS SO YOUR FEEDBACK WOULD BE GREAT.

Make sure to include your contact details with your feedback and every month until March those that have given feedback will be entered into a draw to win a jumbo box of 80 flowers.

A few of our favourite things

WE THOUGHT IT HAD BEEN A QUIET SUMMER, BUT IT TURNED OUT WE HAD BEEN QUITE BUSY, EVEN IF OUR SCENTED PINKS STRUGGLED A LITTLE IN THE HEAT.

GIRL(S) IN WHITE DRESS(ES)

This autumn Izzy and Jack, who work at Churchtown Farm, tied the knot and became Mr and Mrs Gillett Jnr. Jack grew up on St Martin's, his family runs the campsite and Izzy grew up camping on St Martin's with her family - you can work out how they met! Jack's grandmother festooned our island church with flowers and the celebrations continued in the amazing new barn at the Sevenstones Inn.

AND BLUE SATIN COTTON SASHES

You might have caught us on ITV's This Morning. Presenter Kelly Brook came to Scilly and filmed our farm and the world-famous Tresco Abbey Gardens. Kelly, who is a keen gardener, loved learning all about the unusual plants that grow here. If you want to watch the clip, use this link...

Raindrops on roses

Along with many other farm tenants of the Duchy of Cornwall we were invited to a Highgrove garden party to celebrate the Duke of Cornwall's 70th birthday. After all the hot weather the heavens opened in force, which led to smiles all round from farmers struggling with drought conditions. Less than a week later Their Royal Highnesses visited St Martin's on the Duchess' birthday – Jowan was at the ready with a birthday posy of pinks of course!

WARM WOOLLEN MITTENS

As winter arrives the temperature in the packing shed drops and shorts are replaced with more and more layers, hats and gloves. Our team grows every winter. This year everyone joining the team lives on St Martin's or has worked at the farm before. So when you call to order flowers and want a snippet of island news they will be well placed to oblige!
